

A woman in Sandra 30s, heartbroken, she goes to a bar for a drink, and she met a stranger Ben 30s, who she shares her problem with. After listening to her story, the man tells her that being overly critical and negative to her partners will ruin any future relationships. A photographer who was there took a picture of them as Sandra feels uncomfortable, Ben hands her the picture. She crumpled it and put it into her purse as she listens to his advice and returns to her boyfriend and rekindles their relationship.

Not long after, Sandra got into an argument again with her boyfriend and they ended their relationship.

Sandra returned to the bar and bumped into Ben again. They chatted over a drink as they shared their love life experiences. After that day, they would frequently meet at the bar and eventually begin a relationship.

As the relationship progressed, she began to feel that Ben might be her soulmate. Eventually, they got married and began a family.

As life went on, they had children and the arguments continued.

One day, Sandra met someone. She did not expect anything to happen as she believes in loyalty and doesn't want to compromise her marriage.

As time goes on, Sandra went through more arguments with her husband as she begins to chat with her online 'friend.'

Slowly, Sandra became more intrigued and interested with her 'friend' than with her family as she lost interest in her own husband. She begins to distance Ben, avoiding arguments completely.

Soon Sandra began an affair, she began to display hostility and hatred towards Ben. Ben, feeling abused by her, retaliated and they got into a huge argument that drove her to leave the house with her kids.

As Sandra lives by herself, she gave a thought of ending the affair and to try work things out with her husband. However, as she is meeting her affair to end things with, Ben who was spying on her caught them together.

Sandra cried in front of Ben, begging, and refusing to let go of him as he looked pale and speechless walking away in disbelief that his wife would ever cheat on him.

Sandra and Ben resolved to get a divorce.

Sandra moves out of the house with her kids and begins to adapt to living with her situation, overtime she starts dating again.

Over a period, Sandra's relationship comes and goes as the cycle continues.

One day, during her now grown-up Son's wedding, Sandra met Ben again, who is now remarried. They chatted like they used to as Sandra felt sad that she couldn't have this moment with him continuously over the years.

Sandra lives by herself as the years passed, her children would visit her from time to time.

One day, Sandra's son called her to let her know that her Ben's wife had passed away due to an illness. She visits her ex-husband to offer her condolences as they share each other's life stories through a conversation.

As days passed, Sandra began meeting Ben more frequently. As time went on, Sandra realized that her feelings for her ex-husband began to return.

After giving it some thought, Sandra decided to try to rekindle her relationship with Ben. She gave him a call to meet at the bar they first met, and he agreed.

As she leaves the house to meet him, she receives a call from her children letting her know that her ex-husband is in a hospital due to a heart attack.

The woman rushed to the hospital only to be told by her son that her ex-husband is gone.

The woman sat at her home as she looks over an old picture of her and husband from the bar when they were young.
